

Internship/ job for Electronics Engineer at Havi.co

About Havi.co

Havi.co (havi dot c o, हवि डॉट सीओ) makes diy robotic toys and creativity toys for people of age 6+ with a primary user base of kids aged 6 to 13. We are living with a purpose to encourage creative play amongst people of all ages. Please visit www.havi.co to know more.

- 1) Selected for Stanford seed program as one of the chose startups in asia
- 2) Selected for GiTex Dubai as India's top startup.
- 3) Selected as best exhibiting startup at Bengaluru Tech Summit - Asia's largest tech summit
- 4) Featured as top toy design company in India by YourStory.com

What will you be doing?

- Designing and programming various models using Arduino and ESP32.
- Work on projects related to robots, 3D printing and drones.
- Researching on the idea and making viable working prototypes.
- Electronic circuit design.
- Collaborate with vendors for procurement and manufacturing.
- Hands on working with soldering, crimping and other electronics processes.
- Testing and quality checks.

Prerequisite

- Must have built projects using Arduino or ESP32. Having good knowledge of python programming.

Benefits

- Full term internship with stipend.
- A full time job may be offered to suitable and performing candidate

Who can apply?

- Students just passing out or have just passed out, and having knowledge of Arduino or ESP32 boards can apply.
- Students of other years having very good experience working with ESP32 or Arduino boards can apply for a part time internship post college hours.

How to apply

A fresher will be appointed as intern/ probation with stipend and will get a job offer depending on the performance.

Prepare a portfolio of photographs and video of the working models of your electronics projects and put them on the google drive. Create a drive link which can be opened without password or login. Paste the link in you resume file and submit the resume on www.havi.co/life-at-havi for Internship > electronics engineering.

No portfolio? No application please.